You Can Give Bullied Kids Hope

If you have ever been bullied, you know how awful it can be. Some bullied youth get past it, and say the experience made them stronger and kinder toward others. But for too many, bullies have found and exploited their weak spots. These young people lose their confidence and their focus. Their grades drop. They feel terrible and can't sleep, because the bullies chase them in their dreams. They lose all hope of ever being happy again.

You can help make sure our 24/7 Lifeline: Bullied Youth Support Network is always there for any bullied kid in Canada, whether they need some helpful advice, or our one-to-one help to bring an end to the bullying. Thank you for wanting to raise money for our Lifeline!

In this toolkit you'll find lots of fun ways to raise money for BullyingCanada, in person or online. Get a group of friends together, and you'll have fun while helping desperate bullied kids get the help they need to look forward to a brighter future.

BullyingCanada's Lifeline Gives Bullied Youth a Brighter Future

BullyingCanada is Canada's only wrap-around mental health service for bullied youth.

Our donor-funded 24/7/365 Lifeline: Bullied Youth Support Network works one-on-one with bullied kids, their parents, and local supports for as long as it takes to end the bullying and help them heal.

By phone, text, and email, we connect bullied youth, parents, teachers, school boards, police, and social services.

Our highly trained volunteer Support Responders stay with kids and their families until they are no longer being bullied, which can take anywhere from two weeks to a year or more.

Kids whose lives are in danger, including kids so depressed they are thinking of ending their lives or who are self-harming, can speak right away with our professional counsellors, who help them heal from the emotional wounds bullying causes.

Our work is a lifeline because kids' mental health has become more fragile. Many struggle with depression and anxiety since the pandemic. When that sadness is made worse by the pain and humiliation of bullying, more kids than ever tell BullyingCanada they are thinking about suicide to end their pain.

How Your Donations Give Kids a Brighter Future

The funds you raise for our wrap-around mental health services for bullied kids will truly save lives. Your donation helps by:

- Keeping our Lifeline: Bullied Youth Support Network open 24/7/365
- Making sure the most fragile kids can see a professional counsellor for free
- Keeping our website running and covering internet costs
- Giving our volunteer Support Responders in-depth training in bullying and suicide intervention
- Bringing peace back to bullied kids' lives, and smiles back to their faces
- Giving bullied kids brighter futures! Thank you for caring.

How to Create Your Fundraising Event

Creating a fundraising event is easy if you break it into steps. Here is your handy step-by-step guide.

WHAT

Think about what your fundraiser could be. There are lots of ideas in this toolkit!

WHO

Who can help you organize the event? Sharing the work with people who have different skills makes it easier to plan and run, and fun for everyone. Then, with your fellow organizers, make a list of who you will invite to take part.

WHERE

Your event can be at home, at school, at work, in your neighbourhood, or online. If it's outside your home, remember to get permission.

WHEN

Set a date and time. You may need to work them out with your venue. Some dates can help you attract more people:

- Your birthday
- Pink Shirt Day, Canada's anti-bullying day, near the end of February
- Family Day, the third Monday in February
- U.N. Anti-Bullying Day, May 4
- Canada Day, July 1
- Halloween, October 31
- UNESCO International Day Against Violence and Bullying at School, Including Cyberbullying, the first Thursday of November

WHY

Focus on why you are raising money for BullyingCanada, and share your reasons with friends and family. It may be because:

- You were bullied as a kid and want to help young people going through what you did
- BullyingCanada has expertise in bullying intervention and provides the most comprehensive services to bullied youth in Canada
- Bullied kids need help now, because unless bullies are stopped, bullied kids may develop lifelong insecurities, depression, or anxiety
- BullyingCanada provides professional counselling to young victims of bullying who are thinking of taking their own lives to end their pain
- By supporting BullyingCanada, you give bullied youth a brighter future

HOW MUCH?

Set a fundraising goal you'll be excited to meet and beat! A goal is also a great way to get others to support you or join in.

Work Out the Important Details

Make a work plan and a budget to keep you on track (there's a sample budget on page 7). Think about setting deadlines and dividing the tasks among your committee or teammates. Here are tasks you may need to build into your plan.

Take Care of the Legal Stuff First

- Event location costs: if you can, get your venue donated, or at a discount. Whatever deal you strike, get it in writing, signed and dated by you and the other party.
- Permits: to serve alcohol in some places, you need a permit from your provincial or territorial government. To hold a raffle or 50/50 draw, you also need a gaming permit. If your event is in a public place like a park, you may also need a permit from your city.
- Entertainers: whether you are hiring professional entertainers or they are donating their time, get your agreement in writing, signed and dated by them and by you.

Covering Event Costs

- Sponsors can help you cover event costs. Think of people in your organizing group or your networks who could sponsor the event with a cash donation, or with gifts in kind: door prizes, silent auction items, or food and drinks for the event.
- Do you need any permits? You may need a park or venue permit, or a licence to serve alcohol or hold a raffle.

Promote Your Event

- Plan how you will promote your event. What will reach your audience best: personal email? Social media, and if so, which platform do they use most? Printed posters? Announcements at clubs you belong to?
- Send a "save the date" message, invitations, and reminders. Think about creating an event hashtag so you can share your progress online and encourage others to get involved.

Event Logistics

- Make a list of everything you need to host your event: tables, chairs, cash boxes (and a float to make change), decorations, raffle tickets, garbage cans and bags, paper plates, cups, disposable cutlery, and so on. Decide who will get what.
- Work out who is responsible for each part of running the event (including dealing with venue staff), set-up, and tear-down. You may want to recruit extra friends or family to help. Many hands make light work!
- Sell tickets or take donations at your event. During the event, keep track of your progress toward your goal. Telling people what it will take to hit the goal can spur them to be more generous.

Tax Receipts for Cash Donations

People who make straight cash donations to BullyingCanada at your event can receive a charitable tax receipt for their gifts. Be sure to read the Canada Revenue Agency Tax Receipting Guidelines for Fundraising Events on page 17 first.

To get a receipt, a donor needs to give you their full name, mailing address, and donation amount. Print the Tax Receipt Form for BullyingCanada Fundraisers on page 18 to make this easy. BullyingCanada sends the receipts directly to donors after you have submitted your event proceeds.

Remember to Thank Your Volunteers and Donors!

It takes a community to pull off a successful fundraising event. Celebrate and thank everyone who helped make it a success: your fellow volunteers, participants, donors, and sponsors.

Remind everyone how their efforts and donations support wrap-around, life-saving services for bullied youth, giving them a brighter future!

Submitting Event Proceeds to BullyingCanada

By Mail

Within two weeks of your event, please mail us a cheque or money order made out to BullyingCanada, with your name, address, and phone number. Please include a note about your event. We'd love to hear about it!

Please do not mail cash. Some thieves are targeting Canada Post mailboxes, and your cash may not arrive safely.

If you collected cash donations from individuals, please include the completed Tax Receipt Form (page 18), so we can send them their tax receipts as soon as possible.

Mail your cheque to:
BullyingCanada Inc.
471 Smythe Street, P.O. Box 27009
Fredericton, NB E3B 9M1

Online

You can submit the proceeds online at BullyingCanada.ca/donate. Be sure to send us a note to let us know the gift is the proceeds of your event!

If you have a list of donors who need individual tax receipts, scan and email your Tax Receipt Form to DonorSupport@BullyingCanada.ca, with a note telling us what your event was, when you made the online donation, and the total amount of that donation.

It's Time to Feel Great About What You've Accomplished!

When everything is done, pat yourself on the back, and remember that all your hard work will help us give bullied youth a brighter future. The generosity of everyone who contributed to your event goes straight into the wrap-around care BullyingCanada offers to terrified victims of bullying who have the courage to come to us for help.

Your kindness lets us stand by them, for as long as it takes, until the bullying ends. For kids at their breaking point, you are a lifesaver. Thank you so much for all your efforts to support our critical work. You are making sad kids happy again!

Fundraising Ideas for Kids

Thanks for wanting to raise money to help bullied kids! We are so grateful for your support, because you will help us keep our Lifeline: Bullied Youth Support Network ready to help kids 24/7/365. Here are a few ideas.

If you want to raise money with an activity at your school, please ask your teacher or principal first. You'll need their OK, and their help with space, tables, chairs, or anything else you need. See page 8 to learn how to send your donation to BullyingCanada.

1 Guess the Number of Candies in a Jar

Buy candies in bulk. Wash your hands, count the candies, and put them in a clear glass jar. Make a colourful poster called How Many Candies? that explains your contest is helping bullied kids by raising money for BullyingCanada.

At lunch or before school, tape your poster to the wall behind you or to the front of your table. Put the jar on the table, raised up on a stack of books. Get a pad of paper, pens, and a box to collect money.

Charge $1 a guess. Put the money in your box and keep it safely under the table. On the paper, have people print their name, their guess, and how to reach them (homeroom number, email, or phone number). When you have lots of entries, find out who guessed the right number, or came closest. They win the jar of candies!

2 Craft and Bake Sale

Get together with friends to make friendship bracelets, your favourite cookies, brownies, or anything your friends like making. Make a colourful poster that says you are raising money to help BullyingCanada.

At your school, community centre, or sports club (with their permission first), set up a table with your items and put up your poster. Tell people that all the money goes to support bullied kids! Keep the money safe and out of sight, in a box that closes securely.

3 Birthday Party Fundraiser

Instead of bringing you a birthday gift, ask your friends to bring a cash donation for BullyingCanada. Your party can be at home or somewhere fun, like a local swimming pool, bowling alley, or skating rink. Or have a tobogganing party on a snowy hill!

4 Magic Show

Are you a budding magician, or do you have a friend who is? Put on a magic show, charge people to come, and send the proceeds to BullyingCanada.

5 Pink Cupcake Sale on Pink Shirt Day

Every year, near the end of February, is Pink Shirt Day, Canada's official anti-bullying day. It's the perfect day for an event in support of BullyingCanada. Hold a pink-themed bake sale with pink-frosted cupcakes. And remember to wear a pink shirt in support of bullied kids!

6 Loonies and Toonies for Bullied Youth

This is another great activity for Pink Shirt Day. Collect loonies and toonies from schoolmates and friends. You can do it over a week, so kids have a chance to remember to bring their coins to school.

7 Board Game Tournament

Have people bring their favourite board game, drinks, and snacks. You supply either small tables (like card or TV tables) and chairs, or larger tables and chairs for games with bigger groups. Charge everyone a fee to come, with the money going to BullyingCanada.

8 Get Creative!

Do you have your own great idea for a fundraiser? Go for it! Any amount, big or small, helps BullyingCanada support terrified bullied kids who need expert help to end the bullying.

Fundraising Ideas for Teachers

As a teacher, you've probably seen bullying in your school or classroom. According to Statistics Canada, 47% of parents report having a child who has been bullied. The 2019 Canadian Health Survey on Children and Youth reported that 71% of youth aged 12 to 17 have been bullied.

BullyingCanada is here to help bullied youth, and we go the extra mile to work with you, your principal, and your guidance counsellor to support kids at your school who contact us. That's why we are so grateful that you want to support BullyingCanada's Lifeline: Bullied Youth Support Network and our wrap-around services for vulnerable bullied youth.

Here are a few ideas for raising money with your students. If you also want to raise awareness of BullyingCanada, email Fundraising@BullyingCanada.ca for wristbands or wallet cards for your students (a small shipping fee applies). Once you've held your event, see page 8 to learn how to send the proceeds.

1 Guess the Number of Candies in a Jar

Buy candies in bulk, and a large glass jar, or maybe two: one for students and one for staff. An in-class art project could be a colourful How Many Candies? poster, displayed behind the jar, that says the contest is helping bullied youth by raising money for BullyingCanada.

Charge $1 a guess. Beside a locked donation box people can drop their coins into, ask guessers to write their name, their guess, and how to reach them (homeroom number, email, or phone number). When you have lots of entries, find out who guessed the right number, or came closest. They win the candies.

2 Bake Sale

Do you or other school staff enjoy baking? Do you know students who want to practise their treat-making skills? Get an enthusiastic team together to create mouth-watering desserts! Sell them individually for $1 or $2, or bundle a few cookies or two large pieces of cake for $5, for co-workers or students to enjoy at home.

You can also make this a bullying-awareness activity by holding a pink-themed bake sale on one of the three anti-bullying days below. You'll make lots of tummies happy while you help BullyingCanada put smiles back on bullied kids' faces. Email Fundraising@BullyingCanada.ca for a free anti-bullying presentation you can give your students.

3 Casual Friday or Pyjama Day

Work in a school where students wear uniforms? This one's for you! For bringing in a donation to BullyingCanada, students get to wear something that expresses who they are.

Before or on the day, you may want to talk with your students about how everyone is different, and how different clothing choices are a chance for kids to get to know each other better. You can lead a class discussion, asking students why they chose what they wore, or whether they did it to help bullied kids through their donation. This makes it less likely that kids will be teased that day for wearing something others find unusual.

4 Anti-Bullying Awareness Day

Combine fundraising with awareness on one of three national or international anti-bullying days:

- Pink Shirt Day, Canada's anti-bullying day, near the end of February (the date changes from year to year, so check it first)
- U.N. Anti-Bullying Day, May 4
- UNESCO International Day Against Violence and Bullying at School, Including Cyberbullying, the first Thursday of November

We can give you a free anti-bullying presentation to use in your classes, and BullyingCanada wristbands or wallet cards (for a small shipping fee). Ask school staff and students to make a donation of any size to BullyingCanada, and send us the proceeds.

Order Materials or Ask a Question

Email Fundraising@BullyingCanada.ca. Our wallet cards are available in English or French.

Fundraising Event Ideas for Adults

Cycle or Walk Instead of Driving

For each trip, put the money you would have spent on transportation toward your fund, and cut pollution at the same time! Get others to do the same, or organize a "healthy living" walk or bike ride through a local park, office campus, or interesting part of your city. Ask participants to collect pledges for each kilometre they complete, and enjoy a healthy potluck lunch afterward. Share it on social media to encourage friends and family to support BullyingCanada too.

Baby Picture or Pet Match Game

Invite employees to match baby or pet pictures with photos of management staff. Charge co-workers $2 a ballot. Get more people involved by having prizes donated. First prize goes to whoever has the most correct answers, and if you have a few prizes, second and third place can win something too.

Friday Bake Sales

Let your inner baker get creative! Each Friday, bake special treats and bring them to the office. Sell them for $1 or $2 each, or bundle a few cookies or two large pieces of cake for $5 for co-workers to enjoy at home. You'll win the undying love of your workmates while raising money to put smiles back on bullied kids' faces.

Casual Dress Days

Co-workers pay for the privilege of wearing comfy clothes to work.

Battle of the Bands

Do you have friends and co-workers who are secret rock stars in their spare time? Get their bands to face off. With a donated venue and a few corporate gifts to cover a lighting and sound engineer and some stage decorations, you can sell tickets to an epic music battle and raise money for a good cause!

Guess the Number of Candies in the Jar

Charge a loonie a guess. The closest guess wins the candies.

Point-of-Sale Fundraising

Partner your retail store with BullyingCanada by having your salesclerks ask shoppers to donate $1 to support bullied kids. Running it for at least two weeks gets the best results.

Around-the-World Potluck

With a group of friends or at your office, have each person or department bring food from a different country. Wearing traditional clothing from that country adds to the fun. Charge $5 to $10 to attend.

Office Coin Battle

Each department gets an empty water bottle (the big kind) for staff to drop coins into. Silver coins count as positive; loonies and toonies count as negative and are subtracted from the total. Staff can "sabotage" another group's bottle by dropping in a loonie or toonie. At the end, all coins are counted, and the group with the most money wins bragging rights. All the proceeds go to BullyingCanada.

Craft and Bake Sale

Everyone loves picking up a treat at a sale like this! Hold it at your office or in your neighbourhood. It gives everyone a chance to share their hobbies and talents. All items are donated, and the sales go to the campaign.

Executive Chair Race

Set up a relay course for executives to race through sitting on office chairs. Time each contestant with a stopwatch; the fastest wins a prize. Co-workers donate or bet $2 on their favourite contestants.

Theme Meals

At your office or with friends, host a theme lunch: the ’60s, ’70s, or ’80s, a holiday, TV shows, sports, a murder mystery, Mardi Gras, James Bond, and so on. Make it a potluck and encourage costumes. Charge $10 to attend.

Backyard or Parking Lot BBQ

Try to get what you need donated: disposable plates, cups, and napkins; meat, buns, and condiments; drinks; a grill and propane; lawn chairs; and tables. Work out the cost of anything that can’t be donated, and set a price for the BBQ that covers costs and includes a donation. Pre-sell tickets. A fun alternative is a potluck picnic, with everyone bringing a dish to share. Add a game of Frisbee or some music to liven things up.

Auction

It can be silent, or livelier with a live auctioneer and real-time bidding. Hold it at a party, a neighbourhood gathering, or your office. Set a date and time, and encourage friends, family, employers, and co-workers to donate popular items: gift cards, wine and spirits, gift baskets, services, sports memorabilia, dinner with a beloved community member or local celebrity, and so on. A good variety is important!

Bake-Off

Know wannabe bakers who would eat up (!) the chance to show off their skills? Host a bake-off to see who’s best. Everyone who comes is a judge, donating $1 per vote for their favourites. Make it a challenge by having bakers use only certain ingredients. The baker who raises the most money wins! To raise even more, host two baking masterclasses led by an experienced baker before the bake-off, and charge a registration fee. Hopefuls can learn a few tricks for competition day.

Birthday Fundraiser

When you host a birthday party, ask for donations to BullyingCanada instead of gifts. Spread the word with tools like JustGiving.com or Facebook, which lets you raise funds for a charity of your choice for your birthday. At the party, you can pass the hat, charge admission, or even hold a silent auction.

Holiday Party

Are you or your office hosting a holiday party? Make BullyingCanada your charity partner, and ask people to make a donation instead of a Secret Santa gift. Announce your total at the party!

Employer Matching Gifts

Ask your employer whether they will match employees' donations to charity. If so, make sure employees know how to submit a copy of their charitable tax receipts so your employer can match their gifts.

A Corporate Donation Instead of Employee Gifts

If your business gives gifts to staff every year, take a poll to see whether employees would give up their gift so the company can make a corporate donation to BullyingCanada instead.

Karaoke Idol

This puts the FUN in FUNdraiser! Rent a karaoke machine, use karaoke videos on YouTube, or ask a local restaurant or bar to host the evening. Charge an entry fee, or have people donate as their vote for their favourites. Get a prize donated for the winner.

Plant Sales

Encourage people to let their gardens breathe by dividing their overgrown perennials. Ask for seed donations, too. Hold a sale on your driveway, with the proceeds going to BullyingCanada.

Still Stumped? More Fun and Offbeat Ideas

- Competitions: ugliest tie, ugliest Christmas sweater, boat race, adults-on-tricycles race, three-legged race, kite flying, joke telling, juggling, cutest or ugliest pet, dance-a-thon, line dancing, best pie, remote-controlled car race, board games, tennis, racquetball, or ping-pong, sailboat race, and talent contests
- Sales: unwanted gifts, books, handmade crafts, and collectables
- Dares: taking a bath in baked beans, beard, moustache, or head shaving, leg waxing (for men), a parachute or bungee jump, and role reversal day
- Non-event event: encourage people to spend a night at home and donate what they saved by not going out
- Break a world record: grab a Guinness Book of World Records and see if there's something you could beat! Get pledges from people who want to see it happen.
- Decadence: wine and cheese, wine and chocolate, scotch tastings, or a Just Desserts evening
- Magic show: dust off those playing cards and your old magic wand, and dazzle friends and family with your magical skills!
- Let your imagination run wild! Think of something you'd love to do while raising money to bring peace back into the lives of bullied youth.

Frequently Asked Questions

What Is BullyingCanada's Charitable Registration Number?

82991 7897 RR 0001.

If I Host an Event, Am I Eligible for a Tax Receipt?

Under Canada Revenue Agency rules, only certain kinds of donations can be receipted. Please see page 17 for details.

Can I Use BullyingCanada's Logo in My Promotional Material?

Yes, but we need to review your material first. Please email information about your event and samples of your promotional material to Fundraising@BullyingCanada.ca. Once we have approved the material, we will send you a copy of our logo.

On page 19 of this toolkit is a ready-made 8.5 × 11 inch poster you can print and display at your event, to let people know where the money is going. You may use this poster without asking our permission.

We'd Like to Use an Online Donation and Pledge System. Can You Help?

Yes! We can set up a peer-to-peer online fundraising page for you. To ask about it, email P2P@BullyingCanada.ca.

What Support Can BullyingCanada Provide?

We want your event to be a success, so we can support you by:

- Reviewing your promotional material for use of the BullyingCanada logo
- Giving you a letter of support, which includes our charitable registration number, to confirm that your event and its organizers are genuine
- Offering printable PDFs of promotional material: posters (there's one you can print right away on page 19) and a BullyingCanada fact sheet
- Possibly supplying giveaways like pens or wristbands. Email Fundraising@BullyingCanada.ca to ask.

What Support Can't BullyingCanada Provide?

- Funding, or paying back organizers for, event expenses
- Help organizing your event
- For privacy reasons, we can't share the mailing lists of our corporate partners, donors, sponsors, or volunteers
- Because of the number of third-party fundraising events and our small staff, we can't actively promote your event on our social media or to the news media

Canada Revenue Agency Tax Receipting Guidelines for Fundraising Events

BullyingCanada is a nationally registered charity. Our charitable registration number is 82991 7897 RR 0001.

Tax receipts for gifts made to BullyingCanada through fundraising events can work differently from receipts for gifts made directly to our charity. Please review these rules carefully before you suggest to any donor or participant that they can receive a charitable tax receipt.

When Tax Receipts Can Be Issued to Event Participants

If participants make cash donations to the charity at an event, and receive no advantage* in return (see the note below), they can be fully receipted for their donations if:

- You collect each donor's full name (no first-name initials), mailing address, phone number, email address, and the amount they gave. You can print the form on the next page to help you collect this information.
- When you send BullyingCanada your event proceeds, you note how much of the total came from cash donations by individuals.
- BullyingCanada then sends each donor a receipt for their individual donation.

Donations That Are Not Eligible for Tax Receipts

Under Canada Revenue Agency policy, these funds can't be receipted:

- Money raised by selling items
- Proceeds from raffle tickets and 50/50 draws
- Donated services
- Gift cards a business donates for its own products or services, when used as prizes for a raffle, door prize, or auction
- Money spent on merchandise, food, and drinks at the event
- Proceeds from live or silent auctions
- Event sponsorship, if the sponsor receives advertising or promotion in return
- Ticket sales or admission fees* (see the note below for a possible exception)

Note: the Canada Revenue Agency does allow a tax receipt to be issued to ticket buyers if the ticket price is more than the value of the "advantages" they receive with it, including the food and drinks included in the ticket price, the cost of any other gifts participants receive, a portion of the entertainment cost, and other event expenses. The receipt would only be for the amount above the value of those advantages.

Event organizers are strongly encouraged to contact the Canada Revenue Agency for help working out whether the charity receiving your funds can give your ticket buyers a tax receipt. For more on the Canada Revenue Agency's rules for registered charities, visit www.canada.ca/charities-giving.

We Can Help Bullying Victims Like Kyle Because You Care

Dear BullyingCanada,

I'd been badly bullied for a few years at school because I use a wheelchair. I got to the point where I was always looking over my shoulder, waiting for the next attack. My stomach hurt all the time and bullies haunted my dreams. I was so nervous all the time that I couldn't concentrate in class and my grades tanked.

Finally, I got the courage to text you. Support Responder Chris worked with my teachers, principal, and guidance counsellor for a couple of months to get my bullies to leave me alone. It worked! Now I can be a regular kid again, and I can focus on school. My grades are up again!!

You guys are my heroes. Thanks so much for sticking with me for months until I was safe and happy again. I'll never forget your kindness!!

Your friend forever, Kyle

Thank You for Raising Money for Bullied Kids

Every dollar you raise helps a young person like Kyle reach a trained volunteer, any hour of any day, and get the help they need until the bullying stops.
